

Spread the Word: Vet Nurse+Tech and Practice Management HiVE West

This innovative, live event celebrates and elevates veterinary nurses, assistants, practice managers, support staff, and students with specifically crafted experiences and opportunities to become the most well-rounded versions of themselves by focusing on their professional and personal development.

Vet Nurse+Tech and Practice Management HiVE events by the NAVC are unique experiences for team members looking to feel revitalized in their role by fostering autonomy while also reinforcing positive and efficient team dynamics with RACE-approved continuing education. HiVE events are catered toward smaller, specialized audiences that promote connection, commitment, and ambition. Encouraging personal and professional development for your team members will ultimately increase hospital productivity, industry retention, and revitalization in their roles.

HiVE West will dive into tailored sessions, with themes ranging from medical topics to current affairs to emotional intelligence. Featured sessions will include:

- How to Hire Veterinary Technicians During A Nationwide Shortage
- DISC and EQ for Veterinary Team Leaders
- Fostering Accountability in Veterinary Management: A Leadership Imperative

Accessibility is at the core of HiVE's ethos, with events taking place across the country, low registration prices, and manageable schedules. HiVE West will be back in Anaheim, California, for the second time, taking place on November 22 and 23, 2025. Pricing for basic and premium registration (with premium including breakfast and lunch both days) is $99 and $199, respectively. To learn more and register for the event, visit navc.com/hive.
